Product Description

Shoots and Roots is an ideal place for children to get away from the rest of the playground and enjoy some privacy. This small shelter has three solid Stump Window Panels made from durable rotationally molded plastic. These have a highly detailed appearance which makes them look like a whimsical dwelling made from a hollowed-out tree. Each panel has a circular window to let in some light, provide a view of the rest of the playground, and reveal any sneaky children trying to hide at the end of playtime. The fourth wall is a tunnel, which is used as the entrance and exit. The structure is housed under a Club House Roof, which keeps out the elements so that the inside of Shoots and Roots will stay dry and shady year-round. This structure is perfect for shy or introverted kids who want a moment to get away from their peers and be by themselves.
